

Florida Skin Center wins national award

The Best and Brightest in Wellness named Florida Skin Center a 2018 National Winner for the Best and Brightest Companies to Work For Program. It's one of 512 honored organizations, including Panasonic, Prudential, Sony, T-Mobile, Ace Hardware and LaSalle Network, out of 2,400 nominations. Florida Skin Center will be exclusively celebrated during the Inaugural Best and Brightest National Summit 2019 in Chicago in September.

A competition launched by an initiative commemorating quality in health awareness and employee wellness, the Best and Brightest assessed Florida Skin Center based on communication, work-life balance, employee education, diversity, recognition and retention. This followed the dermatological staff's blind responses to the program's survey and a company survey completed by an operations contact person. To maintain program integrity, a third-party partner/independent research firm scrutinized, analyzed and scored Florida Skin Center's application and company data relative to other nationally recognized winners.

Florida Skin Center's participation qualifications include being a for-profit business with at least 10 employees for a minimum of one year. The practice will receive an overall assessment report with feedback and benchmark scoring data, which will give founder Dr. Anais Aurora Badia and her team the opportunity to determine how the facility functions, how employees engage and how to reduce concerns.

"Employees of Florida Skin Center are some of the best out there, and we treat them as such," Badia said, "with levels of engagement and perks that allow our employees to enjoy their position so much that their performance reflects that enjoyment and more. The results of our Best and Brightest nomination are another way of saying, 'mission accomplished.'"
